My App Ideas

App 1: Cook This

Pitch: “What do you want to eat tonight?” A common phrase that has caused more harm than good. We have all been in that situation where simply deciding on what we want to eat turns into a dangerous battle zone we like to call hunger. Normally one would admit defeat and go to grab a snack that will only deny the end result for a few minutes. But we are here to tell you that this new app is here to help.

Summary: Cook This is a food application that helps users on deciding on what they would like to eat. How the app should work is like this: A user would go to the search bar and type in a food. For this example we are going to use tacos. Once they search the word tacos 5 recipes and 5 places that deals with tacos should pop up here.

App 2: FastBreak

Pitch: Can you show me how to do a lay up...? How about a Euro-Step lay up and can you tell me how many steps in a lay up am I allowed to take before it's considered a travel. When is it the best time for me to jump and contest another players' shot? Can you show me some drills that will help me improve my dribble? The list goes on and on with questions about basketball. You must be thinking to yourself how would I know all of this.

Summary: Introducing FastBreak a place where learning the basics of basketball becomes super easy. You can watch videos, read Articles and find the nearest training camps for the user to improve their game.

App 3: LacedUp

Pitch: Adiddas, Nike, Converse, Vans, and plenty more. Whether you are a huge sneakerhead or a person that doesn't care for shoes at all. More than likely you have heard of these shoe brands before. You may also know that each show may have its own line of designer shoes. To name a few we have the AJ XI Concord, Nike's Lebron X Blue Diamond and the adiddas Black pirate yeezys. Trying to buy one of these shoes is down right crazy because of how popular they are and can take years to find until now.

Summary: LacedUp is a ShoeFinder that helps shoe lovers of any kind find those special pair of kicks. You can start by selecting your brand of shoes once that is done you be directed to the brands area and will be given a quick history of the shoes and a layout of the model of shoes they have.

App 4: SuperHero Cafe

Pitch: Do you remember exactly what height wolverine was registered at in issue 20 of the X-men? If so does it match up with the Avengers wolverine's height. How about this can you give me a quick summary of the incredible hulk trip to the planet hulk and his encounter with the silver surfer. Better yet how's this one How about you tell me all of the identities of the robins batman has trained in the order that they appeared and what became of all of them.

Summary: This Will be the site that will touch the geek in everyone's heart. This site will profile all the superheroes for the Marvel, Dc and all the other universe's

App 5: To-do list (needs a new Name)

Pitch: We all have that thing that we tend to forget to do. Whether it's leaving the car running, feeding the pets, going the bank. We need the extra help here and there.

Summary: The to do list is a simple to do list. There are things that can be added to it to make it more fun or more interesting to draw more attention.
